

Replicas of ancient war machines

Replicas of ancient war machines are in Kamień Pomorski, at Wilków Morskich, right next to the defensive walls, near the Kamieński Lagoon.

The replicas of ancient war machines were made by the Brotherhood of Western Slavs "Guardians of Navia" in cooperation with the Jomsborg-Vineta-Wolin Slavs and Vikings Center. Among the machines that can be admired there are: battering ram - considered one of the oldest siege devices, onager - invented by the Greeks in 385 BC and bricoli - the oldest throwing machine. Each replica has a plaque with a description in three languages: Polish, German and English. There is a parking lot nearby.
